

After him (Fellowes) bring him to the block.
Pro. Now Sir, how do you finde the prisoner?
Duke. A creature vnpre-par'd, vnmeet for death,
 And to transport him in the minde he is,
 Were damnable.

Pro. Heere in the prison, Father,
 There died this morning of a cruell Feauer,
 One Ragozine, a most notorious Pirate,
 A man of Claudio's yeares; his beard, and head
 Lust of his colour. What if we do omit
 This Reprobate, til he were wel enclin'd,
 And satisfie the Deputie with the visage
 Of Ragozine, more like to Claudio?

Duke. Oh, 'tis an accident that heauen prouides:
 Dispatch it presently, the houre drawes on
 Prefix by Angelo: See this be done,
 And sent according to command, whiles I
 Perswade this rude wretch willingly to die.

Pro. This shall be done (good father) presently:
 But Barnardine must die this afternoone,
 And how shall we continue Claudio,
 To saue me from the danger that might come,
 If he were knowne alive?

Duke. Let this be done,
 Put them in secret holds, both Barnardine and Claudio,
 Ere twice the Sun hath made his iournall greeting
 To yond generation, you shall finde
 Your safetie manifested.

Pro. I am your free dependant. Exit.
Duke. Quickie, dispatch, and send the head to Angelo

Now will I write Letters to Angelo,
 (The Prouost he shal beare them) whose contents
 Shal witness to him I am neere at home:
 And that by great Iniunctions I am bound
 To enter publicly: him Ile desire
 To meet me at the consecrated Fount,
 A League below the Citie: and from thence,
 By cold gradation, and weale-ballanc'd forme,
 We shal proceed with Angelo.

Enter Erostoff.
Pro. Heere is the head, Ile carrie it my selfe.

Duke. Conuenient is it: Make a swift returne,
 For I would commune with you of such things,
 That want no eare but yours.

Pro. Ile make all speede. Exit.
Isabell within.

Isa. Peace hoa, be heere.
Duke. The tongue of Isabell. She's come to know,
 If yet her brothers pardon be come hither:
 But I will keepe her ignorant of her good,
 To make her heavenly comforts of dispaire,
 When it is least expected.

Enter Isabell.
Isa. Hoa, by your leaue.

Duke. Good morning to you, faire, and gracious daughter.

Isa. The better giuen me by so holy a man,
 Hath yet the Deputie sent my brothers pardon?

Duke. He hath releas'd him, Isabell, from the world,
 His head is off, and sent to Angelo.

Isa. Nay, but it is not so.

Duke. It is no other,
 Shew your wisdom daughter in your close patience.

Isa. Oh, I wil to him, and plucke out his eyes.

Duke. You shal not be admitted to his sight.

Isa. Vnhappie Claudio, wretched Isabell,

Iniurious world, most damned Angelo.

Duke. This nor hurts him, nor profits you a jot,
 Forbeare it therefore, giue your cause to heauen,
 Marke what I say, which you shal finde
 By euery syllable a faithfull veritie.

The Duke comes home to morrow: nay drie your eyes,
 One of our Couent, and his Confessor
 Giues me this instance: Already he hath carried
 Notice to Escalus and Angelo.

Who do prepare to meete him at the gates, (dome,
 There to giue vp their powre: If you can pace your wil-
 In that good path that I would wish it go,
 And you shal haue your bofome on this wretch,
 Grace of the Duke, reuenges to your heart,
 And general Honor.

Isa. I am directed by you.

Duke. This Letter then to Friar Peter giue,
 'Tis that he sent me of the Dukes returne:
 Say, by this token, I desire his companie
 At Mariana's house to night. Her cause, and yours
 Ile perfect him withall, and he shal bring you
 Before the Duke; and to the head of Angelo
 Accuse him home and home. For my poore selfe,
 I am combined by a sacred Vow,
 And shall be absent. Wend you with this Letter;
 Command these fretting waters from your eyes
 With a light heart; trust not my holie Order
 If I peruert your course: whose heere?

Enter Lucio.
Luc. Good euen;
 Friar, where's the Prouost?

Duke. Not within Sir.

Luc. Oh prettie Isabella, I am pale at mine heart, to see thine eyes so red: thou must be patient; I am faine to dine and sup with water and bran: I dare not for my head fill my belly. One fruitfull Meale would serue mee too: but they say the Duke will be heere to Morrow.
 By my troth Isabell I lou'd thy brother, if the olde fantastical Duke of darke corners had bene at home, he had liued.

Duke. Sir, the Duke is marueilous little beholding to your reports, but the best is, he liues not in them.

Luc. Friar, thou knowest not the Duke so well as I do: he's a better woodman then thou tak'st him for.

Duke. Well: you'l answer this one day. Fare ye well.

Luc. Nay tarrie, Ile go along with thee,
 I can tel thee pretty tales of the Duke.

Duke. You haue told me too many of him already sit if they be true: if not true, none were enough.

Lucio. I was once before him for getting a Wenck with childe.

Duke. Did you such a thing?

Luc. Yes marrie did I; but I was faine to forswear it,
 They would else haue married me to the rotten Medler.

Duke. Sir your companie is fairer then honest, rest you well.

Lucio. By my troth Ile go with thee to the lanes end:
 if baudy talke offend you, we'l haue very litle of it: nay
 Friar, I am a kind of Burre, I shal sticke. Exeunt.

Scena Quarta.

Enter Angelo & Escalus.

Esc. Every Letter he hath writ, hath disfauch'd other.

Ang.

An. In most vneuen and distracted manner, his actions show much like to madnesse, pray heauen his wisdom bee not tainted: and why meet him at the gates and re-liuer ou rauthorities there?

Esc. I ghesse not.

Ang. And why should wee proclaime it in an howre before his entring, that if any craue redresse of iniustice, they should exhibit their petitions in the street?

Esc. He shoves his reason for that to haue a dispatch of Complaints, and to deliuer vs from deuices heereafter, which shall then haue no power to stand against vs.

Ang. Well: I beseech you let it bee proclaim'd betimes i'th' morne, Ile call you at your house: giue notice to such men of fort and suite as are to meete him.

Esc. I shall sir: farcyouwell. Exit.

Ang. Good night.

This deede vnshapes me quite, makes me vnpregnant
 And dull to all proceedings. A deflowred maid,
 And by an eminent body, that enforc'd
 The Law against it? But that her tender shame
 Will not proclaime against her maiden losse,
 How might she tongue me? yet reason dares her no,
 For my Authority beares of a credent bulke,
 That no particular scandall once can touch
 But it confounds the breather. He should haue liu'd,
 Saue that his riotous youth with dangerous sense
 Might in the times to come haue ta'ne reuenge
 By so receiuing a dishonor'd life
 With ranfome of such shame: would yet he had liued,
 Alack, when once our grace we haue forgot,
 Nothing goes right, we would, and we would not. Exe.

Scena Quinta.

Enter Duke and Friar Peter.

Duke. These Letters at fit time deliuer me,
 The Prouost knowes our purpose and our plot,
 The matter being a foote, keepe your instruction
 And hold you euer to our speciall drift,
 Though sometimes you doe blench from this to that
 As cause doth minister: Goe call at Flaminia's house,
 And tell him where I stay: giue the like notice
 To Valencius, Rowland, and to Craffus,
 And bid them bring the Trumpets to the gate:
 But fend me Flaminus first.

Peter. It shall be speeded well.

Enter Varrinus.

Duke. I thank thee Varrinus, thou hast made good hast,
 Come, we will walke: There's other of our friends
 Will greet vs heere anon: my gentle Varrinus. Exeunt.

Scena Sexta.

Enter Isabell and Mariana.

Isab. To speak so indirectly I am loath,
 I would say the truth, but to accuse him so
 That is your part, yet I am aduis'd to doe it,
 He saies, to vaile full purpose.

Mar. Be rul'd by him.

Isab. Besides he tells me, that if peraduenture
 He speake against me on the aduerse side,
 I should not thinke it strange, for 'tis a physicke
 That's bitter, to sweet end.

Enter Peter.

Mar. I would Friar Peter

Isab. Oh peace, the Friar is come.

Peter. Come I haue found you out a stand most fit,
 Where you may haue such vantage on the Duke

He shall not passe you:
 Twice haue the Trumpets sounded.

The generous, and grauest Citizens
 Haue hent the gates, and very neere vpon
 The Duke is entring:

Therefore hence away. Exeunt.

Actus Quintus. Scena Prima.

Enter Duke, Varrinus, Lords, Angelo, Escalus, Lucio,
Citizens at severall doores.

Duke. My very worthy Cosen, fairly met,
 Our old, and faithfull friend, we are glad to see you.

Ang. Esc. Happy returne be to your royall grace.

Duke. Many and hartly thankings to you both:
 We haue made enquiry of you, and we heare
 Such goodnesse of your Iustice, that our soule
 Cannot but yeeld you forth to publike thankses
 Forerunning more requital.

Ang. You make my bonds still greater.

Duke. Oh your desert speaks loud, & I should wrong it
 To Locke it in the wards of couert bosome
 When it deferues with characters of brasse
 A fortified residence 'gainst the tooth of time,
 And rasure of obliuion: Giue we your hand
 And let the Subiect see, to make them know
 That outward curtesies would faine proclaime
 Fauours that keepe within: Come Escalus,
 You must walke by vs, on our other hand:
 And good supporters are you.

Enter Peter and Isabell.

Peter. Now is your time
 Speake loud, and kneele before him.

Isab. Iustice, O royall Duke, vaile your regard
 Vpon a wrong'd (I would faine haue said a Maid)
 Oh worthy Prince, dishonor not your eye
 By throwing it on any other obiect,
 Till you haue heard me, in my true complaint,
 And giuen me Iustice, Iustice, Iustice, Iustice.

Duke. Relate your wrongs;

In what, by whom? be briefe:

Here is Lord Angelo shall giue you Iustice,
 Reueale your selfe to him.

Isab. Oh worthy Duke,

You bid me seeke redemption of the diuell,
 Heare me your selfe: for that which I must speake
 Must either punish me, not being beleeu'd,
 Or wring redresse from you:

Heare me: oh heare me, heere.

Ang. My Lord, her wits I feare me are not firme:
 She hath bin a suitor to me, for her Brother
 Cut off by course of Iustice.

Isab. By course of Iustice.

Ang. And she will speake most bitterly, and strange.

Isab. Most
